Worth the  if you got it

- External mouse & keyboard
- Nice headphones
- Nice noise cancelling bluetooth headphones
- Surge suppressor

The trick I use on my iMac is to use the mic in the computer for input, but use the AirPods (or other Bluetooth headphones) for output. Sounds great. Just have to remember to always do the setup in System Prefs > Sound before starting the call 👍

Remote work tip:

When doing calls from a computer, **do not use bluetooth headphones, especially not AirPods.****

Bluetooth mics on laptops are limited to 16khz (=they sound awful), and introduce 150-200ms extra latency.
